Exit Counseling is a federal requirement for any student that has borrowed while in school. It is designed to help you understand your rights and responsibilities as a borrower and provides useful tips and information to help you manage your loans.

- Before you begin, you should have some financial facts ready: details on your income, financial aid, living expenses and total loan debt. In addition, you will need the names, addresses, e-mails, and phone numbers for two different references who live in the US, and your future employer (if known).

- Federal loan history can be found anytime by clicking the “Financial Aid Review” button on the National Student Loan Database (NSLDS) website: https://www.nslds.ed.gov/nslds_SA/
